

XM is a paid service, not a public broadcast. I do not feel that any group/governmental organization has the right to control what is heard on a paid subscription. HBO is neither censored nor scrutinized in regards to its programming, some of which is considered obscene to many Americans. Consequently, a paid service, even in the form of an audio broadcast, has no bearing on any group that would wish to limit broadcasting content. Yes, the 1st amendment rights come into play here, but a TRAFFIC REPORT??? Forget the lobbying and the pork and read the Constitution for once. Quit wasting taxpayer money to dispute such incredibly insignificant issues. I'm paying $2.00 for a gallon of gas in Florida. I'm also paying $9.99 per month for radio because I cannot stand what is playing over FM/AM frequencies. Stop the crap on terrestrial radio and leave satellite alone.
